JOHN SHERMAN's success in securing another Senatorial term makes him a possible candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1888.

THE House committees are talked up this morning. Markham is on Rivers and Harbors, where he wanted to get, and where he will be useful to his district.

SENATOR JOHN SHERMAN was unanimously renominated for another term by the Republican Legislative caucus at Columbus last night. He will "get even," and make our esteemed enemies "pass their teeth some more."

THE Irish Loyalists assert that British rule has virtually ceased in the southern district of Ireland, being subdued by a government of the National League, which is denounced as an "organization of terror." It is the last of "Ould Ireland" to be always found forever jumping from the frying-pan into the fire.

THE Inter-Ocean said last week: "The demand for cut flowers was never greater in Chicago than during the past week. When a single rosebud costs a quarter of a dollar an ordinary boquet is an expensive luxury." Think of that and compare Chicago in midwinter with Los Angeles at the same season, and mark the difference. The contrast is almost like that found on going from the tropics to the Arctic.

THE contest by Congressman Markham to secure a place on the River and Harbor Committee is looked upon with favor by the press of this district, which has many good words for our able Representative. The San Bernardino Hour, a Democratic paper, thinks the desired appointment ought to enable Colonel Markham to do some good for Wilmington harbor, and adds that "he has fine business qualifications, which will doubtless make him an efficient committeeman."

IN the WEEKLY MIRROR for the current week, printed to-day, will be found a valuable five-column sketch of California at large by Prof. Henry G. Hanks, State Mineralogist. It appropriately rounds out the plethoric budget of special information contained in the New Year's issue of the MIRROR, and makes the present number only second in value to that. Besides this succinct yet comprehensive and attractive sketch, there are seventeen or eighteen columns more of special matter, including a chronological summary of the year's local events, also the current news of the week.

AMUSEMENTS.

HOT WATER.—There was a thin house at the benefit performance last evening, but the entertainment went off with a dash, an extra bill being presented. Alice Harrison and Frank David put a "touch in their hot water by a comedy duet and potpourri of songs, and the burlesque A Night for a Day was given as a finale.

Hot Water again to-night.

DRAMA.—The next attraction at the Grand Opera House, commencing Monday, January 11th, for four days and Saturday matinee, will be Jacques Kruger and his company of comedians in the humorist of all plays, entitled Dreams. The company have received the highest of praises wherever they have appeared. The following is taken from the Oakland Times:

"It is so very seldom that the critic has the privilege of recording an unqualified success that it is a real pleasure to write of one. That Mr. Kruger has company and piece are the constituents of such a success is a fact beyond contravention."

Reserved seats will be on sale Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Aspiring Teachers on the Anxious Seat—Certificates.

The County Board of Education has been in session this week examining applicants for teachers' certificates. Forty applicants appeared at the outset, but the number were prematurely graduated Tuesday, having failed to make the required average of 60 per cent. in arithmetic. The outcome will be announced Friday.

The following is the business transacted by the board last evening: The introduction of elementary geometry in the place of algebra was discussed and referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Clark and Farrow. The same committee was directed to prepare a plan for the regular promotion of pupils in all grades.

Primary grade certificates were granted from Normal School diplomas to the following: Leonora Hassler, Richard B. Seybert, Ida M. McCormick, H. W. Wells, Emily Hamilton, Carrie W. Atkinson, Jennie L. Curtis, Mabel Rorick, Margie C. Downing, Mary A. Mockmore, Daisy Schuler; upon State Educational diploma to Chas. M. Kellogg, Mrs. Ella A Barnett and Wm. J. Evans; upon life diploma to Mrs. M. A. Rammadell; upon diploma of the University of California to Arthur L. Kelsey and Kate O. Jenkins.

Second-grade certificates of the following ladies were renewed: J. L. Large, Clara McMillen, M. Hamilton and Mary C. Adams. Miss Martha M. Knapp was recommended to the State Board of Education for an educational diploma. A High-school certificate was granted to Horace A. Dunham on a life diploma of California.

The Southern California Practitioner.

The first number of a new publication in this city, the Southern California Practitioner, was issued from the TIMES-MIRROR press yesterday. As its title indicates, it is a medical journal and one intended to represent the regular medical profession of Southern California. The Practitioner is published in magazine form, containing thirty-six pages of reading matter. Its editors are J. P. Widney, A. M., M. D., Joseph Kurtz, M. D., and Walter Lindley, M. D. The following is from the salutatory: "Distances, impeding intercourse, mountains, and entirely diverse commercial and industrial interests, which are making of California separate and distinct sections, have been, in a great measure, prevented a close union of the medical profession. Southern California has developed its own internal life and its own educational system. We believe the time has come for the establishment of its own medical journals and societies."

The following is a list of the original articles contributed: "The Anglo-Teuton as a New Home," Dr. Widney; "Case of Intestinal Occlusion, with Operation," Dr. Yale; "Abdominal Surgery," Dr. Wills; "The Study of Medicine in Vienna," Dr. Utley; "A Contribution to the Surgery of Injuries of the Neck," Dr. Seymour. These articles, together with the editorial departments and several valuable translations, make up the issue for January. The Practitioner will be issued monthly, at a yearly subscription price of $1.50.

Notice that Admit Ladies.

MR. M. D. M. writes the TIMES, propounding this question: "Will you kindly inform me through your paper the names of lodges which take as members either ladies or gentlemen; i. e., some which permit ladies joining whether they have male relatives or not?" The only lodges that the TIMES knows of which have the good sense to do that thing are the Good Templars and the Society of Chosen Friends.

CONGRESS.

Offensive Partisanship Before the Senate.

ROSECRANS'S CONFIRMATION DOUBTFUL.

Another Debate of the Utah Iniquity—The Pension Office to Be Investigated—New Bills.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Chair laid before the Senate a letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting a petition from West Point students who are to be graduated in June, 1886, praying that provision may be made for their appointment to the army. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. Dolph, from the Committee on Commerce, reported favorably the bill extending to the city of Portland, Or., the provisions of the law of 1883, relating to the immediate transportation of dutiable goods; also, similar bills relating to Omaha, Neb., and Port Townsend, W. T.

Bills on Mr. Dolph's motion were at once passed.

Mr. Voorhees offered as a substitute for the resolution recently offered by his colleague, one reciting in its preamble, that the Commissioner of Pensions, in his annual report, had stated that at one time the Pension Bureau was all but avowed to be a political machine filled with the adherents of a single organization (meaning the Republican party), and that claimants were often required to support the Republican party as the consideration upon which pensions should issue. The resolution instructs the Committee on Expenditures of Public Money to inquire into the truth of these allegations.

Mr. Logan had nothing to say against the Commissioner of Pensions, whom he respected highly, but he wished the resolution enlarged so as to include an investigation of the present administration of the office. He said that Colonel Fred. Stevenson, a gallant wounded soldier, had been removed from his position at the head of a division of the office at the demand of a Democratic Congressman. No charge had been made against him, and the only reason known for his removal was that he supported the Independent Democratic candidate for Congress in opposition to the man who had him removed.

Mr. Voorhees accepted the amendment offered by Mr. Logan, and the resolution went over for one day.

At 2 o'clock the Utah bill came up and Senator Morgan addressed the Senate upon it.

He spoke in support of an amendment offered by him providing for the disposal of the property of the Mormon church according to the rules and principles of the common law, as in the case of a corporation. He felt, he said, that we ought to strike the Mormon church organization out of existence. Instead of appointing unauthorized agents for management of temporal matters, Congress should put up the organization root and branch.

Mr. Call did not believe that Congress had a right to destroy a religious establishment. He thought what would be the right of Congress if it should undertake to administer by trustees or otherwise the property and temporal affairs of the Roman Catholic Church? He read from the early Puritan laws to show that in the seventeenth century Quakers were denominated a "damnable sect," and that all persons who encouraged their entry into the Colonies were subject to a fine of £100, as well as imprisonment. The Christian sentiment of the country and the ordinary law enforced were amply sufficient for dealing with polygamy. He therefore opposed the bill.

Mr. Edmunds said that the bill would not affect the religious affairs of the Mormons. It would only affect the temporal arrangements of the Mormon church so far as those arrangements contributed to the polygamous habits of the people of the United States regard as a crime.

Much debate ensued as to the legal effect of the provisions relating to testimony to be given by husbands and wives, and some amendments of detail were made. Mr. Morgan's amendment was agreed to, also were some amendments offered by Mr. Brown, as to one of which, that certain portions of the act should apply equally to Gentiles and Mormons, Mr. Edmunds explained to be solely to meet a claim to put any such provision as that into a statute of the United States." [Laughter.]

House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—In the House the call of States was resumed, and the following bills and resolutions introduced and referred:

By Mr. Goff of west Virginia—To repeal the internal revenue tax on tobacco.

By Mr. Bean of Arizona—Calling on the Secretary of the Interior for copies of the correspondence between his department and the Governor of Arizona on Indian matters.

By Mr. Gifford of Dakota—For the admission of the State of Dakota—also, for the appointment of two additional Justices of the Supreme Court of Dakota.

By Mr. Hailey of Idaho—For the appointment of an additional Justice of the Supreme Court of Idaho.

By Mr. Joseph of New Mexico—Providing for an additional Justice of the Supreme Court of New Mexico—also to provide for the organization of a regiment of volunteers in Arizona and New Mexico, for the purpose of suppressing Indian hostilities; also for the relief of the heirs of Christopher Carson; also a resolution for the appointment of a committee of three members to investigate the conduct of the campaign against the hostile Apaches in Arizona and New Mexico as conducted by General Crook.

By Voorhees of Washington Territory—For the admission of the State of Washington; also for the forfeiture of unearned Northern Pacific lands; also to secure a more efficient Civil Service reform.

WASHINGTON.

The New House Committee—National Notes.

WASHINGTON, Jan 7.—The Senate Committee on Postoffices and Postroads has been considering nominations of postmasters that have been made to fill vacancies caused by death, resignation and expiration of terms, and have decided to report favorably a large number of them, against whom no objection has been raised. Invitations have been sent to Postmaster General Vilas in each of sixty cases in which postmasters have been suspended, and other members of the Cabinet have received them in a like manner. Postmaster General Vilas is expected to-day.

STRONG OPPOSITION TO ROSECRANS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The Inter Ocean's Washington special says: There are more objections to the confirmation of General Rosecrans as Register of the Treasury than to any other nomination pending, and they come from all parts of the country, from Maine to California. Among the documents laid before the Senate by those who oppose the confirmation of Rosecrans are certain which relate to the story of his treatment of a clerk in the Register's office who had worn himself out in the supply of the government, and was peremptorily discharged by the General when the latter learned that he was a brother-in-law of the late General Curtis, between whom and Rosecrans there was ever a bitter feud. The story is told in the following letter from San Francisco, which has been laid before the Senate:

Hon. W. S. Rosecrans—DEAR SIR—The friends here of Buckingham, for many years an employe in your department, and who has recently been removed by your orders, beg very respectfully a reconsideration of that order and ask that Mr. Buckingham be reinstated at his former desk. Mr. Buckingham has now reached that time of life when the absence of his usual vocation is a serious privation. Therefore we beg you to recall the name of years he has been employed in the department so that now he is virtually united for any other position. We feel sure that his personal and official conduct has been singularly free from criticism and that his retention would be fully carrying out the principles of civil service reform. Respectfully,

A. BAIRD AND OTHERS.

Shortly after his dismissal Buckingham died.

MANTON MARBLE'S MISSION.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The President to-day, in answer to the resolution adopted by the Senate December 9, transmitted copies of documents showing the action taken by him to ascertain the sentiment of foreign governments in regard to the establishment of an international ratio between gold and silver. The correspondence is accompanied by the letter from Secretary Bayard to the President in which he mentions the designation of Mr. Marble as a confidential agent to obtain information on the subject of the status of metallic currency abroad, and says: "No separate report by Mr. Marble has been made because the results of his investigations appear fully in the matter of Messrs. Phelps, McLane and Pendleton.

The correspondence opens with a letter from Secretary Bayard to Manton Marble, notifying him of his designation to visit Europe upon the mission above indicated. Letters were also addressed to our Ministers at London, Paris and Berlin, notifying them of Mr. Marble's visit, and asking them to cooperate. A reply was received from Minister Phelps, under date of London, October 20th, 1885, in which he says: "From these, as well as other sources, I am satisfied that the British government will indefinitely adhere to their past and present policy in regard to coinage, that they will not depart from the gold standard, that and so long established; that they will not become a party to any international arrangements or agreements creating a bi-metallic standard at a common ratio between gold and silver for the purpose of making both an unlimited legal tender, nor adopt such silver standard in Great Britain. On this point both political parties quite concur.

The reply from Minister McLane at Rome, dated October 18, 1885, expressed his opinion that, while France would gladly receive intelligence that the United States would adopt the French ratio of 15½ of silver to 1 of gold, no consideration of future consequences could induce her to adopt the American ratio of 16 to 1. Still less would she adopt any higher ratio.

Mr. Pendleton, in his reply dated Berlin, October 19th, 1885, gives his conclusions briefly as follows: "The adhesion of Germany to an international bi-metallic union, such as was proposed by the United States and France in 1881, can scarcely be expected. But whenever it becomes possible to include in such a union England and Russia she might join."

Pacific Coast Freight Rates.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—The Call's New York special says: It was stated sometime ago that merchants here with San Francisco connections were holding back their freight shipments pending a decision by the transcontinental pool as to future rates. The quantity of high-class freight accumulated has now assumed quite formidable proportions, and offers a tempting bait to the various roads to make special contracts to get control of this portion of it a near day the present tariff will be cut into by one or two lines, which will lead to a general break on all the lines to the coast. The clipper season now being about over, the surplus of goods can naturally go only by rail, though the Pacific Mail steamers have been doing an enormous business and filling their vessels a long time ahead of sailing dates.

Chinese Laundries Closed.

SAN JOSE, January 7.—All the Chinese laundries in this city are closed today. This is the result of the arrest of nineteen laundrymen for violating the ordinance forbidding laundry work in wooden buildings.

PACIFIC COAST.

Judge Terry Leads Althea to the Altar.

THE NUPTIAL KNOT TIED AT STOCKTON.

Ex Congressman Sumner Appointed Deputy Supreme Court Clerk—The San Francisco Dynamiters—Coast Notes.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Times.

STOCKTON, Cal., Jan. 7.—David S. Terry, ex-Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of California, and Miss Sarah Althea Hill, claiming to be the widow of ex-Senator Sharon of Nevada, were married in the parsonage of the Catholic church shortly before ten o'clock this morning. Miss Hill, arrived on the steamer from San Francisco at three o'clock this morning and remained on board until nine, when she left for the parsonage with State Treasurer Oullahan, who acted as groomsman for Terry. The bride was dressed in a walking suit of dark woolen material, there being nothing in her appearance to indicate that she was about to wed the man who had so valiantly fought her case before the courts of law against the late Senator Sharon. Father O'Connor, of St. Mary's church, performed the ceremony. The only other person present was the groomsman Miss Hill having decided to dispense with bridesmaids. Judge Terry even positively refused to allow any reporters to be present. The license gave the bride's name as Sarah Althea Hill Sharon, her age at thirty-two, and Terry's at sixty-two. The ceremony was quickly performed, after which the bridal party drove to Terry's residence where a wedding breakfast had been prepared. As soon as breakfast was over Terry went direct to the Superior Court where he had a case on trial. Clinton Terry, the Judge's only living son, is reported to be greatly annoyed at his father's marriage, and intends leaving here for Fresno, where his father lately purchased for him a large property.

It has been learned that the time worn trouble arising over forgetting the wedding ring was an incident of Terry's marriage to-day. The ring had been secured by the Judge, but was left at home. The ceremonies were begun, when the absence of the ring was discovered. D. J. Oullahan made a hasty visit to a jeweler's store down town, selected a ring and discovered in his excitement that he had forgotten to bring any money. The ring was charged to the State Treasurer's account, and the rest of the ceremony was smooth.

SAN FRANCISCO.

McCarthy's Successor—The Dynamiters—Forger Pratt.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—The first act performed by the new Clerk of the Supreme Court this morning upon taking possession of the office was to reappoint all the old deputies, with the exception of J. B. Kilaby, who, on account of his ties of relationship to the departal Clerk, McCarthy, was not retained. In his place ex-Congressman Charles A. Sumner, who has but recently returned from Washington, was appointed.

THE DYNAMITERS.

Judge Rix this morning stated that he would postpone sentence of Henry G. Weissman and Abe Reuff, known as "dynamiters" until the 14th instant.

FORGER PRATT.

Chief of Police Crowley received the following dispatch relative to the return to this country of the forger Calvin Pratt:

YOKOHAMA (Japan), Jan. 7.—Sail to-day. Have none. JOHN COFFEY.

(Signed.)

This is interpreted to mean that Detective Coffey sailed with his prisoner, but recovered none of the money. Over $10,000 were obtained by the forgeries.

FOREIGN.

The New French Cabinet—Reports from Tonquin.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The new cabinet was announced in the Official Gazette this afternoon as follows: DeFreycinet, President of the Council and Minister of Foreign Affairs; Sarriton, Minister of the Interior; Badi Carnot, Minister of Finance; Goblet, Minister of Public Instruction; Demole, Minister of Justice; Develle, Minister of Agriculture; Gen. Boulanger, Minister of War; Aubra, Minister of Marine, Colonies; Bergeret, Minister of Public Works; Granet, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs; Lockroy, Minister of Commerce.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The composition of the new ministry creates a lack enthusiasm. Notably this is true of the appointment of Sarriton, third rate politician, to the important office of minister of the interior. It is said that his appointment will prove a source of weakness to the cabinet, and the latter will, it is believed, be short lived.

NEWS FROM TONQUIN.

Gen. DeCourcey, commander of the French forces in Tonquin, telegraphs the War Office as follows: "During the latter part of December the rebels destroyed the Catholic mission buildings at Ughaan, Annam, and killed a French missionary and five hundred native Christians. A column of French troops was sent in pursuit of the rebels, overtook and routed them and captured their arms and ammunition."

THE PANAMA CANAL.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The Panama's Paris correspondent says: The French government will, at the request of the Panama Canal Company, send Roussean to inspect and report on the condition and prospects of the Panama canal. If his report is favorable a loan will be granted to push the work to completion. If it is adverse the enterprise will be allowed to collapse and the government will assume the responsibility.

JOHN SHERMAN.

The Republican Caucus Renominates Him for the Senate.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 7.—The Republican members of the Legislature had an open joint caucus this evening and nominated Hon. John Sherman for the United States Senate, to be voted for at the joint convention of the two Houses next Tuesday. The vote was unanimous and open, there being no other name suggested than the caucus. Not more than two dozen persons were present other than members. A number of short, enthusiastic speeches were made indorsing the nomination, among them being speeches by Ex-Governor Noyes, and Governor Kennedy. The caucus was presided over by Senator Ely, of Cleveland, and was in session less than an hour.

A Desperado Captured.

QUINCY, Illinois, January 7.—C. M. Marshall and George Mosse, of Cass Grande arrived here to-day from near the Sonora line, where they captured Jesus Para, one of the Mexicans who held up Marshall and a companion near Casa Grande on the 1st inst., and after relieving them of their valuables drove them into a deep gulch and coolly informed them of their purpose to kill them to prevent their escape. On the promise of the victims not to report the affair to the authorities they were released by the robbers, who then rode off toward Mexico, with the result as above stated. Marshall recovered two horses, blankets, etc., taken by the robbers, and dangerously wounded the Mexican in effecting his capture. All are en route for Casa Grande.

Convicted by a Woman.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Jan. 7.—Estanislaus Cordero, a native ranchowner, was publicly cowhided in the street, at noon to-day, by Mrs. Gutierrez, who accused him of circulating scandalous reports against her character. She succeeded in getting in one stroke on his face, when Cordero ran across the street, pursued by the infuriated woman. Passing through a clothing store, he secreted himself in a small building in the back-yard. Mrs. Gutierrez walked away in triumph.

SONORA SPECULATION.

Prominent Citizens Scooped by a Startling Scheme.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—The Chronicle this morning prints a long special from New York, taken from the Tribune, in which serious charges are made against some of the promoters of the New Jersey and Sonora Mining Company, organized to work copper mines in the State of Sonora, Mexico, and especially the Capriza mine, in that district. Similar charges are also published in respect to the San Pedro and Rosario Mining Company. United States Consul Willard, at Guaymas, is said to have advanced to the New Jersey and Sonora Mining Company $30,000, all of which is a loss. Senator McPherson, of New Jersey, and several other gentlemen of Newark, N. J., are said to be heavy losers through misrepresentation. The names of the value of the mines and their paying capabilities. A request has been made for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the business of the New Jersey and Sonora Company. C. Meyer Zuhick, of Arizona, is said to be the President of the company.

Dr. Munhall.

The evangelist preached to a fair congregation in the Tabernacle last evening, on "Backsliding."

Before commencing his sermon Mr. Doctor announced that the Bible reading to-day would be on the subject of "Annihilation," and that the Sunday afternoon meeting in the Tabernacle will be a jubilee meeting, to which all are invited to come, instead of a children's meeting as he had formerly announced. Also that he would lecture Monday evening in the First Presbyterian Church on "The Great Cathedrals of Italy," for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, the lecture to be illustrated by stereopticon views, and descriptions from his own travels in foreign lands.

Dr. Munhall's Bible readings are in the First Presbyterian church this week, and the attendance and interest is said to be unprecedented in this city in matters of that character. This is the fifth week that Dr. Munhall has been holding every week day except Saturday, still there seems no diminution in numbers or enthusiasm, but rather the opposite.

Long Beach Notes.

Ocean avenue, the principal street of Long Beach, is being graded. The wharf, now completed, is a favorite resort for visitors and residents. A new deal is now promised as to the much-belabored railroad. The grade from Long Beach to Wilmington has been practically completed for some time. It is now proposed to abandon this expensive experiment, and run the road from Compton. Of course it is declared that the iron will be laid this week. The cost of this change is set at about $6000.

Glendale Still.

In the Annual Trade Number of the TIMES one of the adjacent settlements was called "Etheldene," in conformity with what had been announced as a change of name. A correspondent writes: "The name is 'Glendale' still, and likely to be. It is six miles from the Courthouse to the center of this place, which has been built up within two and a half years. There is a Methodist church, as well as Presbyterian, in which services are regularly held."

Reappointed.

John T. Gaffey has been reappointed Deputy Clerk of the Supreme Court for Los Angeles by Chief Justice Sharpstein, the new incumbent. Mr. Gaffey will return home to-day.

ENLARGED SHEET

FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1886.

A Railroad Alliance.

Among the TIMES telegrams yesterday was a dispatch giving some further points relative to the compact (made in November) between the Southern Pacific and California Southern Railroad Companies, by which the trains of the latter have the right to the use of the former's track between this city and Colton. The intimation was broadly conveyed that that compact amounted to something more than a lease—to a virtual sale, in fact, of one-half of the line between the points named to the newcomer, behind which is the powerful and enterprising Boston syndicate, representing the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé overland system. The dispatch only bore out private information which the TIMES had already received through high railroad sources, but which we were not at liberty to use earlier.

Now comes, through the San Francisco Chronicle of Wednesday, the still more important intelligence, or well-supported rumor, that the Atchison has secured joint control with the Southern Pacific of the latter's line all the way to San Francisco. The Chronicle says in its news columns:

> The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé's discrimination against San Diego, its arrangement whereby it is enabled to run its own cars over Southern Pacific rails into Angeles and other southern towns, with a thousand and one other surface indications of less importance, have excited considerable comment among the railroad men in this city as well as much surprise among shippers. An impression has gone abroad that the Atchison has come to an understanding with the Central Southern Pacific, has taken advantage of the overtures of that company made in the interest of peace and tariff maintenance, and has thrown down its shield and hung up its helmet. It would appear that the intelligent minds that have reached this conclusion are about correct as to their surmises. The only question that has puzzled the local railway world outside of the mystic precincts of Fourth and Townsend streets was the nature of the negotiations pending and in what shape they were to be made public. It was reported on good authority yesterday, however, that an agreement had been signed by President W. H. Strong, of the Atchison, with the ex-active officials of the Southern Pacific Company, whereby the Atchison will obtain joint control of the Southern Pacific from San Francisco to Colton. The Atchison is to pay 35 per cent. of the cost of maintenance and receive a like share in the earnings of the road, while the Southern Pacific Company will receive 65 per cent. and pay that proportion of the running EXPENSES. There are some details not yet agreed upon, on which the legal advisers of both companies are now deliberating, but it is understood that the main feature of the agreement as outlined is fully settled. The roads will have a joint local agent in this city, and all of the officials of the line will receive their salaries from the two companies on the basis of 35 per cent. from the Atchison and the remainder from the Southern Pacific Company. This agreement is a concession on the part of the Southern Pacific which would never have been made had not the Atchison built its extension to San Diego and threatened to run a steamer line to this city, at the same time that it had agents in the field negotiating for the purchase of terminals here for a line of railway to be built within the next five years. The Southern Pacific officials deemed it cheaper in the end to give the Atchison joint control with their company of the line to Colton than to run the risk of competition with a new and popular road. The only expense to which the Atchison has gone to secure this concession was the building of a short piece of road from Waterman to Colton, and it may be remarked that the comparatively small sum which that extension cost the Atchison, was money well invested. It is understood that the trains of the Atchison (Atlantic and Pacific) will continue to run into this city as heretofore, and although the announcement of the making of the agreement will be a disappointment to shippers in the city, they will not for the present realize any change in their treatment at the hands of the road, as its traffic affairs will remain, as heretofore, under the control of the Transcontinental Association.

There is a statement to the effect that the Atchison, in addition to the payment of 35 per cent. of the cost of maintaining the road, has agreed to pay a proportion of the interest on the bonded debt of the Southern Pacific Company. The intention is to be has not transpired.

This is very important information, and the Chronicle's report has the appearance of truthfulness. The Atchison has been aligning at San Francisco, and its evident determination to put its line through to the bay has at last come to a crisis upon the Southern Pacific management, else they would never have made the concession that they are reported to have made to their powerful rival.

The proposed arrangement, while not competitive, leans more in that direction than any railroad combination now in operation on the Pacific Coast, with San Francisco as the objective point. The controlling reason which influenced the long-headed "copartners" to make this big combination was doubtless the conviction that the time has not yet come when two competing and nearly parallel roads, running into San Francisco, will pay satisfactorily on the large investment that would be required.

But competition, outright, direct and sharp, is bound to come in the saccharine future.

A line up the coast will be a consummation before the end of five years—possibly within three years. There is a stretch of country there too valuable to be long neglected by sagacious railroad builders.

THE Del Monte "Wave" designates a neatly-printed monthly, published by Major B. C. Truman. It is designed, presumably, to advertise the advantages of the Hotel del Monte, of which it bears a striking cut on the cover page. The "Wave" contains a goodly quantity of first-class reading matter, and will be a welcome visitor to many households.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

WILMINGTON.

NEWS AND NOTES.

Correspondence of the TIMES.

WILMINGTON, Jan. 5.—The holidays passed quietly with a "Christmas tree" celebration at each of our four churches. Notwithstanding the Express, in its New Year issue, gives us but one, we have four churches, viz: Catholic, Presbyterian, Episcopal and Evangelical Association (German); Wilmington is by no means dead, and her material condition will compare favorably with that of neighboring towns. Several pieces of property have changed hands lately among which we may mention the fine residence of Jesse Coles, sold to Major Fallon, of Los Angeles, who is now occupying it with his family; a fine business property fronting one hundred feet on Canal street, lately occupied as a hotel by Mrs. McMillan, bought by M. Koster, of this place, and the late residence of Wm Barce, sold to Samuel Thompson. Ex-Governor Downey has also disposed of much of his landed interests in this town to Bishop Mora, of Los Angeles.

The social event of last week was the marriage of Miss Isabel Polhamus, one of our most accomplished and popular young ladies, to Frank Oswald, of San Pedro. The happy event took place last Thursday morning, the 31st ult., at 10 o'clock, at the residence of Captain A. A. Polhamus, uncle of the bride, and a member of whose household she has been for most of the time during the past four years. The Rev. Mr. Linsley, of the Episcopal church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a brilliant company of invited guests, including Captain Isaac Polhamus, father of the bride, and his family, of Yuma, A. T. The father gave the bride away; Miss Vickery, of Los Angeles, officiated as bridesmaid, and Harry Downing was "best man." The bridal presents were numerous and elegant, comprising both the useful and ornamental. A sumptuous collation was served at the close of the ceremony by Mrs. Polhamus in accordance with her well known and hospitable manner, and the happy couple were sent off with numerous good wishes and old shoes on the afternoon train for their wedding trip. They are expected back in a week or two, when they will be "at home" in San Pedro, in the cottage lately occupied by the Rev. Mr. Weller.

Our schools opened last Monday with a full attendance and a chance of two teachers. Miss Wheaton and Miss Peck retire, and their positions are filled by Miss Magrie, Downing and Miss Ida Dudley, two of our Wilmington young ladies, and graduates of the last class in the Normal school.

During the cold snap of last week ice formed one morning one-eighth of an inch thick, something which has not occurred here for four years.

Fred. Dell, a former Wilmingtonian, has returned, rented a house, and is keeping bachelor's hall, awaiting the arrival of his mother, who is detained by sickness in Stockton.

John Kennedy, our popular young hardware merchant, has returned from his vacation, fully restored to health and has resumed his business. Mr. Robert Garrett has sold one of his fine young colts to Mr. Birdsall, of Los Angeles. Deputy U. S. Marshal Hayes has completed his fine two-story residence, and has now one of the best places in town.

The pastor of the Episcopal Church and his estimable wife were the grateful recipients of a New Year's gift of $55 in coin from their friends and parishioners here.

Mr. Joselyn, engineer of the steamer Linda, has sold his place and moved with his family into the house adjoining Wilmington Hall. We congratulate the TIMES on its New Year's issue. The best thing yet.

ORANGE.

AN OVERCROWDED PLACE.

Correspondence of the TIMES.]

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—"Oh! such lovely weather!" is the exclamation of Eastern visitors.

There is a grand rush of old, young and middle-aged to see the fine display at the Los Angeles Horticultural and Flower Fair; and all, with one accord, agree in pronouncing it remarkably excellent in every respect.

The Methodists and Presbyterians are each holding "Week of Prayer" services in their respective churches. The attendance is very fair, and a good religious feeling is manifested among the people.

W. E. Foster and his niece, Miss E. M. Abbott, will leave for a visit to friends at Santa Barbara by the Orizaba.

East Orange, known as the Bond and Ogg tract, is building up rapidly. Many of the original twenty-acre pieces are subdivided into lots and tens. A majority of the late purchasers being Friends, this section is fast becoming known as the Quaker settlement.

W. G. McPherson visited Los Angeles Tuesday, to place his second son in the University there. People here are beginning to appreciate the fact that our children can be as thoroughly educated in the city of Los Angeles as anywhere on this coast.

Mr. Van Pelt, two miles north of town, has just sold his ten-acre home place. Considerable property seems to be changing hands now-a-days.

Monday evening, at the close of the Methodist services, Mr. Sibley found his horse and buggy gone from the hitching post. The tracks showed that the animal, becoming loose, had backed out, turned around in good shape, and started for home. Soon after, the whole outfit was found about one-quarter of a mile away, where the horse was quietly eating. Fortunately, nothing was damaged.

DOWNEY.

BUSINESS AND PERSONAL NOTES.

Correspondence of the TIMES.]

DOWNEY, Tuesday, January 5.—New Years' Day passed off very quietly in this neighborhood. No special festivities as I have heard of.

New River school commences next Monday. There were some additions to the U. B. Church during their meeting just closed; the exact number I do not know. The different churches in Downey seem to be pretty well attended this winter. There is fine weather for plowing and other farm work and work goes steadily forward.

I have lately received surprising accounts of developments of oil and natural gas in Northwestern Ohio, (my old home) a region formerly supposed to be destitute of mineral wealth, unless we except some valuable limestone quarries. Wish we could strike a gas well down here at Downey. P. T.

THE NEW YEAR'S "TIMES."

"Even in The East."

Ontario Record.]

On January 1st the LOS ANGELES TIMES issued a special number (in addition to its Annual Trade Number) for the Immigration Association. This is a six-page paper, cut and bound, and is quite a volume in itself. Though devoted mainly to a sketch of the resources of Los Angeles city and county, several articles of special interest concerning the other southern counties are given; notable among which are those on the Mineral Wealth of Southern California, and The Vine, Its History and Culture. A sketch of the City of the Angels is given in six epochs. Pomona, Pasadena, and the other colonies in Los Angeles county are given a good send off. Rarely have we seen a finer piece of newspaper work, even in the East, and the articles are just such as the prosp ective emigrant wishes to get hold of.

"One of the Most Enterprising."

San Jose Mercury.

The LOS ANGELES TIMES kept up its reputation as one of the most enterprising newspapers in the State, by a twelve page number on New Year's Day. It contained a review of the trade of Los Angeles for the year, and furnished abundant evidence that that city is becoming a formidable commercial competitor with San Francisco. The TIMES is a good representative of the energy and deserved prosperity of Southern California, and its holiday issue was a credit alike to its managers and the city in which they live.

"A Splendid Holiday Edition."

Santa Barbara Independent.

The LOS ANGELES TIMES got out a splendid holiday edition. They state that the impressions of the New Year issues of the TIMES-MIRROR amounted to no less than 67,254, which is doing pretty well for Southern California.

"A Splendid Paper."

Sacramento Record-Union.]

The New Year's number of the LOS ANGELES DAILY TIMES is a splendid paper. It consists of twelve large pages, of 108 columns, of well-filled matter of unusual interest to the southern portion of the State, together with editorial and literary work of such excellence as to be highly complimentary to its publishers.

"Characteristic Enterprise and Nerve."

San Diego Union.]

The LOS ANGELES TIMES twelve-page New Year's edition is characteristic of the enterprise and nerve that distinguishes the TIMES establishment. Not many large city papers have done better than the TIMES in a holiday edition.

"A Fine Issue."

Merced Star.]

The LOS ANGELES TIMES appeared on New Year's with a splendid edition of twelve pages. It is a fine issue and reflects much credit on its enterprising proprietors.

THE G. T. IN SANTA BARBARA.

How He Hails There To Rest and Grow Strong.

A TOURIST'S LETTER.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL., December 8, 1885.—The health-seeker or other traveler on first landing on the Asiatic side of the Pacific ocean is given by the European-American there the degree of Globe-trotter, with right thenceforth to affix the initials of honor, "G. T." to his or her name. And surely a further decree is conferable upon those who, having tried the world over for health or relaxation from over-work, finally reach this haven of delight. They will surely come to roost here with the birds of winter passage! And nothing here that shows a mortality sense of rest and peace, that sense of having left a world of care and chase and got to the balmy heaven, sings they led to be bounced with the title of Past Globe-trotter, with the initials of "P. G. T."

It may be an old story to Pacific dwellers, but to the rest of the world north of the tropics it will be ever-recurring wonder for spring to begin in the first days of December! Yet so it is here. The rains of last month have been succeeded by two weeks already of the warmest, loving sunshine which merges to-day's Nature's home to fairly dancing with the rhythm of the poetry and tune of the music in the air. The new growth of 1886 has already begun here. The hills and fields are of that vernal green which up East ever-renewing youth and life.

We spent December 3d at the hospitable home of Mr. W. M. Eddy, Santa Barbara's banker, and to see the familiar trees of our own New England associations—elm, sycamore, or see and others—all budding out anew, as near the equinox, in solids, firmness and yellow-birds, just as in a New England April or May time, is a curious sensation for December. "Are these trees awake and their buds up for all day?" we asked. "Yes, indeed!" was the reply. "This is our spring in Santa Barbara.

The hotels here are home-like indeed. The absence of trade, to any extent, keeps out that home-upsetting atmosphere of business pressure. Landlord and guests are there like together, and not in separate set groups.

The Arlington is acknowledged to be the best hotel on this coast. It is like a gentleman's country-seat in the midst of gardens and with broad verandas, where its guests live most of the day, out of doors in the sunshine. The eastern verandah is like a sunroom, about 150 feet long and 20 feet broad, filled with the fragrance of many evergreens and verbenas.

The hotel table is supplied from Colonel Hollister's big ranch, or farm, with all possible and some impossible (to us) fruits, and cream, buttermilk, honey and sweet cider, without extra charge. Nobody waits hungers of the strong to be fed! It is the place to forget them in.

The climate, unlike that of Nice and the south of Europe, does not send any one of the summer approaches. The thermometer does not vary here over fifteen degrees the year round, and there is none of th t after four o'clock p. m. chill in the air, so hard for the weak to bear in the Mediterranean climates.

Besides the great hotels, there are very many hospitable boarding houses, suitable to all incomes.

We who write this testify in no selfish interest. We leave to go back to our world of every-day work. But we want others to find what we have found here, strength and rest, to take back to us. And so we close with the greeting of the good Master of Santa Barbara fathers to the world outside the cloistered peace of their lives.

MRS. C. E. BOURCY, M. D.

HAS taken rooms at the Midwinter Fair; and all, with one accord, agree in pronouncing it remarkably excellent in every respect.

The Methodists and Presbyterians are each holding "Week of Prayer" services in their respective churches. The attendance is very fair, and a good religious feeling is manifested among the people.

W. E. Foster and his niece, Miss E. M. Abbott, will leave for a visit to friends at Santa Barbara by the Orizaba.

East Orange, known as the Bond and Ogg tract, is building up rapidly. Many of the original twenty-acre pieces are subdivided into lots and tens. A majority of the late purchasers being Friends, this section is fast becoming known as the Quaker settlement.

W. G. McPherson visited Los Angeles Tuesday, to place his second son in the University there. People here are beginning to appreciate the fact that our children can be as thoroughly educated in the city of Los Angeles as anywhere on this coast.

Mr. Van Pelt, two miles north of town, has just sold his ten-acre home place. Considerable property seems to be changing hands now-a-days.

Monday evening, at the close of the Methodist services, Mr. Sibley found his horse and buggy gone from the hitching post. The tracks showed that the animal, becoming loose, had backed out, turned around in good shape, and started for home. Soon after, the whole outfit was found about one-quarter of a mile away, where the horse was quietly eating. Fortunately, nothing was damaged.

DOWNEY.

BUSINESS AND PERSONAL NOTES.

Correspondence of the TIMES.]

DOWNEY, Tuesday, January 5.—New Years' Day passed off very quietly in this neighborhood. No special festivities as I have heard of.

New River school commences next Monday. There were some additions to the U. B. Church during their meeting just closed; the exact number I do not know. The different churches in Downey seem to be pretty well attended this winter. There is fine weather for plowing and other farm work and work goes steadily forward.

I have lately received surprising accounts of developments of oil and natural gas in Northwestern Ohio, (my old home) a region formerly supposed to be destitute of mineral wealth, unless we except some valuable limestone quarries. Wish we could strike a gas well down here at Downey. P. T.

THE NEW YEAR'S "TIMES."

"Even in The East."

Ontario Record.]

On January 1st the LOS ANGELES TIMES issued a special number (in addition to its Annual Trade Number) for the Immigration Association. This is a six-page paper, cut and bound, and is quite a volume in itself. Though devoted mainly to a sketch of the resources of Los Angeles city and county, several articles of special interest concerning the other southern counties are given; notable among which are those on the Mineral Wealth of Southern California, and The Vine, Its History and Culture. A sketch of the City of the Angels is given in six epochs. Pomona, Pasadena, and the other colonies in Los Angeles county are given a good send off. Rarely have we seen a finer piece of newspaper work, even in the East, and the articles are just such as the prosp ective emigrant wishes to get hold of.

"One of the Most Enterprising."

San Jose Mercury.

The LOS ANGELES TIMES kept up its reputation as one of the most enterprising newspapers in the State, by a twelve page number on New Year's Day. It contained a review of the trade of Los Angeles for the year, and furnished abundant evidence that that city is becoming a formidable commercial competitor with San Francisco. The TIMES is a good representative of the energy and deserved prosperity of Southern California, and its holiday issue was a credit alike to its managers and the city in which they live.

Santa Barbara Independent.

The LOS ANGELES TIMES got out a splendid holiday edition. They state that the impressions of the New Year issues of the TIMES-MIRROR amounted to no less than 67,254, which is doing pretty well for Southern California.

"A Splendid Paper."

Sacramento Record-Union.]

The New Year's number of the LOS ANGELES DAILY TIMES is a splendid paper. It consists of twelve large pages, of 108 columns, of well-filled matter of unusual interest to the southern portion of the State, together with editorial and literary work of such excellence as to be highly complimentary to its publishers.

"Characteristic Enterprise and Nerve."

San Diego Union.]

"A Fine Issue."

Merced Star.]

The LOS ANGELES TIMES appeared on New Year's with a splendid edition of twelve pages. It is a fine issue and reflects much credit on its enterprising proprietors.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Government bonds dull, steady. The only features were in Erie and Texas Pacific. Erie, common, was the only really active stock on the list, and closed above advance of 1 per cent. Other changes among active stocks are all small, the business being equally divided between buying and selling.

QUARTERLY MEETING AT PASADENA.

What Was Done Yesterday — Who Were There — Papers Read and Points Made

Correspondence of the TIMES.

PASADENA, January 7, 1885.—The Pomological Society, which was to meet at 10 a. m. this morning, was only called to order at 1:30 p. m., owing to the lateness of the hour at which the hall could be secured—it having been occupied by other parties yesterday.

The following was the programme:

1. Music, Carl Frese and Mrs. Riggins.
2. Address of Welcome, Dr. O. H. Congar.
3. Opening Address, by President H. Hamilton.
4. Reading minutes of previous meeting, and regular business of the Society.
5. Music.
6. Essay—"The Present and Future of Fruit Growing in Southern California," by Milton Thomas, Los Angeles.
7. Discussion of Essay.
8. Adjournment till 1:30 p. m.

Afternoon Session.

1. Music.
2. Essay—"Pruning and Renovating Orchards," by J. W. Sallee, Pomona.
3. Discussion of Essay.
4. Adjournment.

President Hamilton, in a few well-chosen words—selecting as his text the Latin aphorism, Utile dulce—called the meeting to order, and enjoined upon the members harmony and good feeling.

Dr. Congar, though unprepared, welcomed in a truly fraternal manner the members and visitors.

The reading of the various papers by the gentlemen to whom had been assigned the various subjects mentioned in the programme, took up considerable time, as the subjects discussed were handled exhaustively and to the satisfaction of all present, as evidenced by repeated applause.

Under the head of reports of committees, M. Baldridge, who had been appointed chairman of a committee of five (with power to select the other four) to take into consideration the subject of sending the fruit exhibit of this quarterly meeting to the East, reported that, in the committee's opinion of the committee (who had met at Mr. Baldridge's house in Azusa), the fruit at this season of the year is insufficiently mature and lacked the color and flavor necessary to justify its being sent on exhibition at the present time. Instead of the eastern exhibit the committee recommended a small sample exhibit at Pasadena.

EXHIBITS.

The following were the exhibits, which were very tastefully arranged on a long table in the center aisle of the hall, and also against the rear wall:

Pasadena—Pasadena exhibitors turned out in force. They were: Messrs. Visscher, Charles M. Parker, Stratton, George E. Meharry, James Craig, M. McGee, Henry Wood, F. A. Masters, C. B. Richardson, Colonel Banbury, B. F. Ball, Ed. L. Farris, W. T. Clapp, L. A. Evans, S. D. Bryant, A. E. McQuilling, W. E. Cooley, Dr. A. Wright, M. P. Tyler, F. M. Hovey and Mrs. Charles A. White.

These exhibitors showed Washington Navel oranges, Seedlings, Mediterranean Sweets, Michael and Chinese Mandarin oranges, Genoa and Eureka lemons, several varieties of apples, Bartlett pears, Malaga grapes from Spain, pears, orange quinces, guavas, tomatoes, etc.

A beautiful basket of cut flowers, in large variety, from Mrs. Dr. Allen, and other flowers set off the tables quite tastefully.

Azusa—The Azusa Valley showed some very fine navel oranges, remarkably clean and free from any appearance of smut, and very large. This valley is booming up, and the exhibitors from this section looked happy as their fine fruit was being admired by the many visitors. Oranges in this part of the exhibit measured 6 inches in circumference. The Azusa exhibitors were: Messrs. M. Baldridge, J. and M. and Wm. Daugherty, J. P. Ecker (i beautiful cluster of St. Michaels), M. A. Lafetra, Mrs. Whitcomb; and they showed lemons and oranges only.

Sierra Madre—This section, through its exhibitors, Messrs. Peney R. Williams, A. A. Smith, C. W. Swain, S. Hosmer, A. W. Brainard, E. B. Jones, G. B. Renfro, and Mrs. R. E. Ross, showed some very fine oranges and lemons. They claim that they are above the fog and frost line, and hence that their fruit is the finest in the land. One large Washington navel orange, from Captain A. B. Swain's orchard, measured 13¼ inches in circumference, and was greatly admired. The exhibit from this colony comprised only oranges and lemons.

Duarte—This settlement was represented by E. T. Smith, who showed oranges.

Ranchito—This aspiring neighborhood was represented by apples of several varieties and oranges, shown by J. W. Cate and Mrs. Mary Abbot.

Downey—This neighbor of ours made quite a nice show, with oranges, pressed figs—and nice ones, too—walnuts and raisins, shown by James Stewart; and some nice specimens of apples, among several varieties of oranges and apples, by F. R. Willis.

Highland, Bear Fork—Solitary and alone is his glory, like the boy, on the burning dock, whence all but him had fled. So, as evidenced by the navel oranges, stood George Rice, from Highland.

Owing to the delay in the arrival of the contributions from Santa Ana, Orange and other towns, the fruit from these places had not been displayed when this report closed—hence the omission of any mention of them. But Santa Ana is having a little picnic of her own, and she ought to be happy. J. C. G.

Do Bees Injure Fruit?

BY HIRAM HAMILTON.

President of the Los Angeles F. and B. A.

Requested to lead the discussion on the above question by the committee, I prefer to reduce to writing what I have to say. An extensive and successful bee-keeper, for more than a quarter of a century in California, I know whereof I affirm when I say, "They do."

There is an old tradition among bee-keepers, that bees are not able to puncture the skin of fruit, that they are furnished by a tubular proboscis, with which they suck honey and other liquids, and that with this they suck the juice of fruit already broken by insects or birds.

I have no patience with the candor of an apiarist, who, at this late day, repeats this absurdity. He must be very stupid who has not learned better by his observation, to say nothing of the revalations of the microscope and of entomological science.

The American Cyclopedia, found in nearly every one of the 5,000 school libraries in California, is good authority on this subject. Under the heading of "Anatomy and Physiology of the Honey Bee," may be found the following: (page 50, vol. 3): "He who runs may read:" "The bee has four membranous naked wings, the upper being the largest; the mouth is furnished with two strong mandibles, and four palpi, largest in the working bee, used, not so much in eating as in breaking hard substances in their workers labors; the teeth, concave scales with sharp edges, are attached to the ends of the jaws and play horizontally." For taking up liquids it has a long proboscis or trunk, performing the office of a tongue, though it is formed by a prolongation of the upper lips; it is solid and not tubular, like the trunks of other hymenopterous insects. The trunk is support ed by a scaly pedicle and is grooved by a double sheath. The central portion, which appears like a thread or silky hair, under the microscope, is seen to terminate in a sort of button fringed with hairs, and the whole organ to its very base is surrounded with similar fringes, which are admirably adapted for taking up honey or other fluid aliment."

This settles the question as to the bee's armament, and his ability to puncture fruit.

If anything further on this point is necessary, let us refer to our experience as apiarists. Our early methods of keeping honeycombs in place when transferring from box-hives to movable frames, was by use of twine; but the bees, using their strong mandibles, soon cut the twine and let the combs fall. To prevent this, Mr. Hatch secured the bees in place on the use of strips of tin in place of the twine. A covering of strong cotton cloth over the frames, if left long, would be cut to pieces and cast out of the hive. Again: If bees were armed only with the traditional hollow tube, how could they cleanse their hives of dead and maimed bees? The thing is too absurd to be entertained for one moment. Their ability being established, next comes, Will they eat fruit? Their greatest apologists freely admit that they will if the skin of the fruit is broken.

I am a friend to the bee-keeper, and also a friend to the bee keeper, being related to him by the strong tie of consanguinity. The profits of my apiary for the years of '59, '60 and '61, were $10,000 each year. I have not the slightest inclination to slander or misrepresent that synonym of industry. I am persuaded that the bee would never injure fruit if his master would keep him supplied with honey-bearing flowers. If the bee-keeper would make an outlay of soil, water and labor in sowing honey-producing flowers, equal to the outlay and toil the fruit-grower has to make, I am sure that his bees would not be troublesome to his neighbors. In California there is hardly a day in the year that bees cannot and will not work, and, unless the owner can afford to keep his bees employed in some harmless labor, he must remove them to the mountains, where they will be profitable to himself and harmless to others. The injury to the raisin-maker by the bees in the Santa Ana valley is so great that it cannot be endured another season. The bee-keepers in the mountains east of that valley are offering to buy, at a fair valuation, all the bees in the valley. But there is a class of bee-keepers that claim that bees are an advantage to the fruit-grower, by carrying pollen from flower to flower, thus setting the fruit.

This theory, like many others, has found its grave in California. If the effect of the pollen is to set the fruit, surely the pollen of each flower is sufficient for its own. If not sufficient, the effect of the bee is not to increase it. The bee, on the flower of its pollen, gathering all he can to carry to his hive for food.

If there was not enough to accomplish the purpose in the first place, surely there will not be after it. "But," says traditional friend, "it is not the amount of the pollen that sets the fruit; it is the crossing of it." I affirm that this has never been demonstrated. All that has been proven on this point is, that by crossing the pollen the seed is changed, and, if planted, will produce a new variety of fruit. The fruit itself is not changed, therefore a yellow bellflower tree will always produce yellow bellflowers, no matter how much crossing of pollen there may be. Also, a Newtown pippin will always produce Newtown pippins. But the seeds of the fruit may produce a new variety. Now, varieties are changed in that way, and in no other way. I am now ready to affirm that no fruit-grower ever produces his new varieties by the aid of bees or other insects. If the grower wishes to produce a new variety, he must attend to the pollen himself, and not trust it to bees or other insects. Should he neglect this, he might plant from youth to old age without success.

I am now ready to prove that the setting of fruit is not in the least dependent on bees. I am a pioneer, and was engaged in buying and selling fresh fruit in 1851. The orchards and vineyards about the Missions were as fruitful then as now, or have been since; yet no bee was seen in California till four or five years later. The first bees imported into California were brought by a Mr. Sheldon, who placed them on the ranch of Don Kennedy, of Santa Clara, and on returning across the bay met his death on the ill-fated Jenny Lind. Staking two swarms were soon under my charge. I transferred them into movable combs, Langstroth hives, and soon had a number in addition of usefulness. Up to that time the orchards and vineyards never failed, in their abundance of fruit.

While the bees were busy in bees to raisins in the Santa Ana Valley has been great the past year, the injury to orange trees has been greater. The bees are the main scale from tree to tree. This scale is the most destructive and the most difficult to destroy of any that has ever made its way into California. The young of this pest are almost too small to be visible to the naked eye. The wingless females are carried from tree to tree by bees.

Simple declarations, without the evidence on which they are founded, are valueless. Therefore, I will put the fruit which establish my proposition. First, the habit and manner of the bee in gathering pollen necessarily, if possible to collect these microscopic mites with pollen and carry them from one tree to another. That they do this is evident from the fact that the lemon tree, which is always in bloom and covered with bees, is the first to be infected with the scale. There has been a remarkable increase of this pest during the last season. Many orange groves have been dug up and burned, solely on account of their having become infected.

There is plenty of room in California as yet, for both industries, but they cannot flourish together.

Our valley was once a good sheep pasture, but when it became evident that it was more valuable for fruit than for wool and mutton, the sheep left for other fields. When it becomes evident that our soil and acreage are more valuable for another industry, horticulture will modestly and silently retire.

Pruning.

ESSAY BY J. W. SALLEE OF POMONA.

First to be considered is the necessity for a uniform system. It certainly looks very badly to pass through one of our beautiful fruit settlements and see one orchard pruned six feet high, causing the trees to look not to be able to get nourishment, while the third is medium. One bushy and neglected, and another cut almost to death. A uniform system is very desirable, but this system should be the best one that can be secured.

I do not hesitate to recommend the low system. The advantages of this system are:

First—The branches growing from the tree-trunk near the ground are much more healthy and vigorous than those growing higher. In this climate this tendency seems much more prevalent than in the Eastern climates. Think the hot summer sun must have a tendency to close the pores through which the sap flows, or in some way prevent a free flow of sap to the extremities. At any rate the fact is that a branch growing from the trunk near the ground grows much more rapidly and healthy than one higher up. Therefore, a tree with the branches put forth within eight inches of the ground, in the age of bare prime, is very much larger than one with the branches three feet high.

Second—The trunk of the tree is much better protected by the low system. If the top is formed within eighteen inches of the ground, the trunk will be upright. As before shown, it is stouter, and will by the weight of top near the ground, there is much less danger of the wind causing the tree to lean away from the strong. This is the case universally when the tree is pruned high. Every tree leans from the direction of the prevailing winds, which here are from the southwest, thus giving the afternoon sun full power on the naked tree trunk, which causes the bark to sunburn, and disease at once the result. It looks to me like murder to see a beautiful orchard of young trees all leaning and sunside sunburnt. This all can be obviated by pruning low. Borers are the result of this high method of pruning. They come immediately after the tree is sunburnt. Low pruning is a preventive of the borer.

Third—The fruit is much easier gathered from a low-pruned tree than a high-pruned tree. Most of the fruit can be gathered from the ground, thereby greatly lessening the labor. This is very expensive gathering fruit when a two-story ladder is necessary.

Fourth—A much prettier tree can be had by the low method of pruning. The branches will grow more vigorously and it is much easier to secure branches where needed. If a young tree is cut off near the ground it will send out many healthy branches, while if cut high those branches will be few and delicate. Hence, a much more symmetrical and healthy tree can be had by the low method.

Fifth—In citrus trees especially, by the low method, the land beneath the branches is kept shaded, moist and free from weeds. The land does not harden and dry nearly as fast as when exposed to the hot sun of high noon, which must be the case by the high pruning.

These are the advantages of the low system of pruning, which, when taken together, go far towards making up the great object of fruit culture, viz., the largest possible yield of fruit, and consequent profits. The only objection I have ever heard to the low system is on account of the cultivation. It can be more conveniently done under the system of high pruning.

There is but one answer to this objection. It is this: If cultivation is the object in fruit raising, it can be done much more easily without the trees. Leave them off entirely. If fruit is the object go directly after it. Again, by the improved tools for cultivation, it is easy to approach the tree trunks, although the branches may be low. And again, it is a fact that a branch putting forth from the trunk three feet from the ground—if pruned that high—will extend horizontally, thereby coming in contact with the horses, while one putting out one foot from the ground grows vertically and is pressed aside by the horse.

The best method to secure a low head is to cut the trunk off within sixteen inches of the ground. Cut all branches off—not smooth with the trunk, but leaving a very short stub—just the bulge or base of the branch. This is to secure the more healthy buds which put forth near the base of the old branch. You will be much more certain to secure good, healthy branches in this way than you will to cut smoothly. Allow five or six of these healthiest branches to grow, seeing that the head is properly balanced. Do not grow them too near together at the top of the trunk, but distance them within ten inches of the top. Remove all other branches within this distance with your hands while they are quite young. All branches below the head should be allowed to grow about six inches long, then pinch out the bud, allowing the foliage to remain. This protects the trunk until the head is large enough to do this, when these small branches must be cut off. You should allow the four, five or six branches which form the top grow uninterruptedly the first season. The following winter cut these branches off within ten or twelve inches of the trunk, being careful to cut just above a series of healthy buds. If the tree is an upright grower cut to an outside bud, but if a spreading grower cut to an inside bud. At all times have an eye to the protection of the tree from southwest winds and sun. The second season allow two or three branches to grow from each one of the parent branches. You thus have a handsome, symmetrical tree, and your after pruning is suggested by the foregoing. When branches begin to decline they should be removed. And after the tree begins to bear the pruning should be much more sparingly done, if fruit is the object. A few general principles is all that can be given in an article of this kind, which I hereby lay down.

First—Close pruning, when the tree is dormant, induces tree growth. Hence, if your tree is feeble, or has not grown as well as you wished, trim it closely in the winter season, always cutting just above healthy buds.

Second—A severe shock to the tree either top or roots—while the sap is flowing freely, causes the tree to throw out fruit spurs and buds for the next season. This is from the fact that the law of nature is reproduction and the shock causes the tree to act thus upon the principle that this will be its last chance for reproduction. Pruning while the tree is in bloom causes that crop of fruit to fall, upon the same principle. And likewise deep plowing is a system of root pruning—has the same effect. I do caution fruit-raisers upon this point, however, for it is this error that has caused many of the young trees in this country to bear far beyond their capacity, thereby injuring the young trees.

Third—When tree growth is desired prune while the tree is dormant, and when fruit is desired prune sparingly and when the sap is flowing.

Fourth—For plums, prunes and apricots, leave all the small spurs growing may be, also, a few on apples as well as old, for these are they which bear the fruit. "Head in" well from the outside, which tends to fully develop these spurs, and also strengthens the tree, and causes the fruit to bear near the trunk.

Fifth—Apples, pears, quinces and peaches bear nearer the tips, and young trees should be well headed in in the winter season, both to give the tree symmetry and strength, and also to induce a more vigorous wood growth and prevent a premature bearing of fruit, which is too much the case in this climate.

Sixth—The principle is different in citrus trees. The fruit and foliage are both borne at the extremities of the branches, hence never "head in" a citrus tree, but as the tree develops cut out from the inside all dead branches and those which nature indicates past usefulness, at no time making an objectionable window or opening through the umbrella-like foliage. After a small branch has borne fruit, there is another branch putting forth below that will soon overreach it and which will bear fruit in the future. Nature thus prunes the old branches, but should be aided by the husbandman's shears.

Seventh—At all times remove all dead branches and branches that interfere. This should be done by making the cut smooth, which will move readily then.

Eighth—The best time for pruning is immediately after the tree has shed its leaves in winter, which is the last of December or in January. This is with deciduous trees. For citrus trees any time is good while the tree is dormant.

Ninth—The best tools for pruning are a saw, working on a swivel and with a spring back similar to a butcher's saw, only set to cut as you pull towards you, and a pair of first-class nine-inch pruning shears; also a light chisel and mallet for smoothing rough cuts. * * *

MINNESOTA ASSOCIATION.

A Business and Social Meeting Last Night.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Minnesota Association was held last evening at the Emerald Club rooms, about seventy-five ladies and gentlemen being present.

Rev. George Galpin, a Minnesotian residing in Southern California for the winter, was invited by the President, E. P. Ingersoll, to be seated, and responded in a most interesting address on observations of a Southern California winter as compared with the "blizzards" of Minnesota.

A recess of half an hour was then taken, when Mose Sperry, of Lamanda Park, gave hearty greetings and new acquaintances were formed.

After recess the society was entertained with a piano solo from Miss Bertha Lindley, followed by an entertaining address from Hon. William Fry, a new arrival from Minnesota. Mrs. Parkes sang a ballad with piano accompaniment by herself, and J. F. Kellog followed with a piano solo, "Nearer Home," with variations. For an encore, Mr. Kellog gave a humorous "Quaker Psalm," lined, those present joining in the "psalm."

The choir was augmented the following committee on entertainment for the next meeting: Dr. Hagan, Dr. W. Lindley, C. O. G. Scott, R. M. Parkes, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Brown.

Committee on applications for membership: Leg J. Thompson, A. J. Hechtman and Geo. W. Knox.

It was ordered that a "visitors book" be provided and placed in the office of the County Clerk as a register for all visiting Minnesotians and present and former residents of that State.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at the same rooms on Thursday evening, January 21st.

Carpenters' Union—Election of Officers.

Union No. 56 of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners elected the following officers last night for the ensuing six months: President, B. Nelligan; Vice-President, W. B. Lewis; Recording Secretary, W. B. Carter; Financial and Corresponding Secretary, A. Vinson; Treasurer, G. Wilson; Conductor, Andrew Bushey; Warden, Ed. Beauchamps; Delegates to Trades and Labor Council, S. B. Johnson, J. W. Wilson, A. Viestie, J. F. Johnson, Jesse Pelton. The union is in a flourishing condition to-day, and has been of material assistance to its members. It has reduced the working time to nine hours, paid out the sum of $1043.75 in benefits and donations, and has a substantial sum in the treasury. The union now meets in Painters' Hall on Thursday nights, and the second anniversary of its organization will be celebrated by a grand ball on the 11th of March.

Quinn—Sawyer.

On Wednesday, January 7th, M. Fay Quinn of El Monte and Miss Fannie M. Sawyer of this city, were united in marriage at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, by the Rev. Elias Birdsall. Mr. Quinn is a prominent resident of El Monte, and is well known here. Miss Sawyer has, for a number of years, been one of the most active workers in the benevolent organizations of this city. She was a leader in the Flower Festival movement and has done much to advance the interests of the success of Southern California. She was one of the editors of the Daily Censor, while that publication existed, and has always been a great friend of the press and of press movement. Mr. and Mrs. Quinn will reside at El Monte, where they will be pleased to meet their many friends.

THREE ROBBERS.

They Waylay a Farmer on the San Gabriel Road

AND PLANT THREE BULLETS IN HIM.

But Grit and a Good Team Save Him from Robbery—A Most Atrocious Outrage.

A. Lustfield is a farmer fifty years old who came here from Minnesota about two months ago and settled near the Monte, where he bought a farm of forty acres from Mr. Baldwin.

Last Thursday evening about 7 o'clock he started from the city with his team and road wagon to drive out to his farm. He took the "adobe road" and, a little before 8 o'clock, was in the vicinity of the well known powder house. Across the road from the powder house and a little further along is what the public knows as "the old Franklin place"—a house surrounded by eucalyptus trees. As Mr. Lustfield drove along the road in front of this place three men emerged from the concealment of the trees, and one seized the horses by their heads, while the other two advanced to the wagon on either side. "This is him," was an expression dropped as the men came up, and "Get down" was next spoken in a commanding tone by one of the fellows at the side. Mr. Lustfield, startled at the order, put whip to his horses, and they broke away from the man at their heads and bounded along the road. Almost simultaneously there were two shots fired, presumably by the men who had approached the wagon, and an instant later, there was another shot. The first sent a bullet through the fleshy part of Mr. Lustfield's left arm, just below the shoulder, and it imbedded itself in the clothing over his left breast. The second shot struck the same arm just below the first wound. The third ball was planted in the right shoulder blade. During this time, and for a few minutes subsequently, Mr. Lustfield describes his sensations as very peculiar. But the horses went along at full gallop, and the foot-pads and their remaining bullets were soon distanced. Mr. Lustfield bled profusely from his wounds, and, in a few moments, he became faint and sick at the stomach. The speed of his team, he lay down in the bottom of his wagon. The animals traveled on over two miles and stopped at the Five-Mile House, a small place of entertainment.

The people of the house came out in response to his calls and carried the wounded man in. They appeared to be well-meaning folks, but they evidently did not appreciate the gravity of the situation, for they allowed the man to lie without medical attention until morning. Dr. J. Hannon having been summoned, went out and dressed the wounds. He found them painful but not threatening to life. The first bullet made its way between two of the muscles of the left arm. The second ball, the doctor thinks, must have glanced or bounded, as he could not find it. The third ball, in the right shoulder blade, he cut out, a considerable quantity of good straw in the bullet hole then having been first administered. Mr. Dobson, of the El Monte Hotel, happened along at the time and assisted the doctor in addressing the wounds.

Mr. Lustfield has two daughters eighteen and twenty years old, respectively, who are living at his farm. The rest of his family being in Minnesota. One of the daughters was with him yesterday morning during the operation, and immediately thereafter went out to bring her sister.

Dr. Hannon expects to have his patient brought to Los Angeles to-day for better treatment, but does not yet know where he will be placed.

Mr. Lustfield furnishes a clue that may lead to the arrest of the foot-pads, but which the TIMES refrains from publishing at present for the high ends that may be thwarted. The Sheriff's office has the matter in hand and will catch the culprits if it lies in good detective ability to do so.

There is no question that the city is infested with desparate characters to a greater extent than ever before. Honest people must be protected, and a thief-proof jail and police force, and the flood will pour in all over the store.
